The Bible is old, but I know it's still relevant. The story of His people, the words that He was telling them. Coming out of slavery, the Israelites needed Light for the night, so the fire burned bright. It was God's might behind the stick that struck the rock that got the water to flow, though the desert was hot. Manna every morning, but please do not store it, please to not hoard it, worms will come for it. Trust... that's the main lesson. Everything I need from the only God living.
